

Paraiba Tourmaline GIA Certified Brazilian Origin!

What is Paraiba? (Pronounced: para-e-ba) Named for the Brazilian State of Paraiba, it is the rarest gem in the tourmaline family, displaying a color that is described as ELECTRIC! Genuine Brazilian Paraiba is hands down, the rarest, most beautiful in the world. From Mina da Batalha in Sao Jose da Batalha nearby town in the state of Paraiba, Brazil. We purchased ours in 1992, direct from the mine owner! In addition, each of our gems has been GIA Certified as Brazilian Origin! It's independent PROOF that any jeweler or appraiser will recognize. (There are copy cats from Africa but ONLY the Brazilian is the most desirable and genuine original Paraiba) A GIA Cert will be delivered with each gem, plus you'll receive a copy of our original invoice. There is no better provenance.

We are downsizing (our personal collection) and have decided to sell. Each gem has been GIA Certified Brazilian in origin! CAUTION: Do not be confused by African or Madagascar tourmaline that legally can now be called "Paraiba". This original Brazilian material was mined out and only lasted a few years. Everyone naturally wants the real original Paraiba! The other stones have the same general composition, but not the same chroma (color intensity). Unless the material is from the State of Paraiba in Brazil it is not the genuine original Paraiba. This is a once in a lifetime offer...when these are gone – they're gone!

Email first to insure the gem you want is available. Prices include USPS shipping and insurance in USA only. As with all of our gems, our Paraiba is 100% satisfaction guaranteed and may be returned within 10 days for a full refund. * Every gem will include the important GIA Certificate of Authentic Brazilian origin and a copy of our original invoice from the mine owner.
